

Numbers don't lie: How to grow the Kingdom chart.

When it comes to asking people for Bible studies, this will take time to become a habit, and to become comfortable with doing this in practice. But when you are talking to a friend, family member, someone known, someone at a cub scout meeting, a waitress serving at a restaurant, a soccer mom or dad you know while watching the game, etc, and you keep trying you will get there. www.churchofchristevangelism.com will have advise and tools to help you in such interactions.

Once you invite someone to church, to your house for a meal and a Bible study, etc, it gets easier and easier the next time around. And once this habit is learned, it can't be unlearned. Once you are comfortable in the patterns of this habit, you will stay in such a frame. The more you do this, the more studies will follow. And with time conversions! :D

It is important, once you get experienced at soul saving, to begin to teach new converts to convert. When you do this, then the chain effect of EFFECTIVE evangelism begins. It just takes one to start this ball rolling, and it will keep rolling as long as the cycle continues, (of personal learning, actively setting up teaching opportunities, converting others, and having them learn the same process). It must always be emphasized to new converts the need to share Jesus and that you or another in the faith, can help them meet this goal.

I know of evangelists who convert 12-20 a year. But let's go with the least amount: Minimal 1 soul saved a year by one person and that person lives 30 more years bare minimum, if that person keeps this habit he's learned and does what he's been taught, this will equal =30 souls saved. Say that 1 soul in the first year is taught to do likewise, again another 30 souls. Let's say the first guy and the second lay the ground work for each of their total 60 souls to teach and save 60 more, that would be 120. In one lifetime, if this was done again and again, the converted, converting, the Christians learning to teach others Christ, how much would a single generation change.

120 souls for 30 years = 3,600 people

3,600 souls for 30 years = 108,000 people

108,000 souls for 30 years = 3,240,000

3,240,000 souls for 30 years = 97,200,000

97,200,000 souls for 30 years = 2,916,000,000

THE WHOLE WORLD!

The Gospel was preached in the whole world before the destruction of Jerusalem, (70 AD). Just 40 years after Jesus Died and rose from the Dead. Matthew 24:14

68 AD, the gospel was preached in the whole world

Col 1:23 (Also mentioned in Rom 1:8)

This was before planes, trains, Twitter, Facebook, Youtube, the internet, cell phones, skype, emails, etc! Yet when people hear “church of Christ,” baptism, “just follow the Bible”, in this age, in this modern world, despite all we have, they don’t know such terms from the Bible’s teachings and pattern. It’s up to us to get up and start doing what the first century did; that of sharing Christ’s truth.
